

We Found the Weapons of Mass Destruction.

They're in the President's Budget.

Thinking the unthinkable

Ronald Reagan said, "A nuclear war cannot be won and must never be fought." Yet, the Bush administration plans to build a new family of nuclear weapons, to lower the threshold for using nuclear weapons, to target non-nuclear countries for nuclear attack, and to develop more usable nuclear weapons for "certain battlefield situations."

Hypocrisy is a poor substitute for leadership

The President claimed we invaded Iraq to control the spread of weapons of mass destruction. American soldiers are dying every day in the name of disarmament. And yet, the Bush administration wants to build new nuclear weapons and is taking steps to resume nuclear testing. A policy of "do as we say, not as we do" undermines our leadership, destroys our credibility and encourages other countries to build nuclear weapons.

We need our leaders to stand for more security, not more weapons

There is no security for America in building new nuclear weapons. It will only encourage other countries to do the same and result in a new global arms race.

Those who represent us must lead this country away from these dangerous policies and toward a safer future. Our Senators will have an opportunity to vote on some of these important issues later this month as part of the Energy and Water Appropriations Bill. Tell them to vote against funding for new nuclear weapons.

America needs a new foreign policy.

Our country deserves a break from the failed policies of the past. Our nuclear weapons policies are encouraging nuclear proliferation. US arms sales and military aid programs have endangered American lives. Our approach to the global community is leading to growing isolation and foreclosing meaningful leadership.

Huge increases in Pentagon spending won't make us safer, but they will take funds from education, health care and other programs and harm the quality of life for all Americans. Eliminating civil liberties will threaten our constitution and undermine the very values that make our nation great.

Campaign for a New Foreign Policy

We'll make our country safer by affirming our values, not abandoning them. We need our leaders to take a stand for the following: support human rights and democracy, reduce and control the nuclear threat, and cooperate with the world community.
